The Green Jam Sessions return to QPAC in 2010

The green open spaces surrounding QPAC will once again be brought to life with the return of The Green Jam Sessions – a free program of lounge grooves and smooth and cool jazz set in a retro outdoor lounge on the Melbourne Street Green.

Featuring musicians from Griffith University, Queensland Conservatorium of Music, the laid back live music sessions will be held every Friday evening commencing February 26 from 5pm till 8pm.

QPAC Director of Presenter Services, Ross Cunningham says the Centre is thrilled with the way Brisbane embraced the Green Jam concept in 2009 and promises more great Friday nights at QPAC in 2010.

“With the steady increase in demand at The Green Jam sessions last year, we have added more chairs, stools, pillows and rugs. The casual outdoor set up will once again provide the perfect location to gather after work, before a show or while enjoying a cool drink such as Coopers Green Label beer from the bar. There are also delicious meals from the QPAC Café or the tasty Green Jam BBQ on offer,” said Cunningham.

The Green Jam Sessions will kick off in 2010 with the Joe O'Connor Trio on Friday 26 February and will continue until the 14 May, showcasing an exciting and varied array of performers.

This FREE program of live music continues to be proudly supported by Heritage Building Society, putting People first. As part of its commitment to building communities, Heritage is proud to be involved with bringing The Green Jam Sessions to the South Bank community.
