QPAC presents the Royal New Zealand Ballet in Angelina Ballerina’s Big Audition

Our favourite mouse, Angelina Ballerina is returning by popular demand to the Playhouse, QPAC from 7 January 2012 as part of her second live ballet production.

Performed by the Royal New Zealand Ballet, Angelina Ballerina’s Big Audition is the perfect introduction for children to the magical world of dance.

Angelina Ballerina’s Big Audition takes audiences on the next step of Angelina’s journey to become a Prima Ballerina as she prepares to audition for the prestigious Camembert Academy.

Back by popular demand after a hit season in January 2010, this production follows the hugely successful Angelina’s Star Performance which delighted more than 11,500 fans over 14 shows at QPAC in 2010.

Angelina Ballerina has been a much-loved children’s character since she first plied her dainty mouse feet in 1982. Inspired by original illustrations and stories by Helen Craig and Katherine Holabird, Angelina Ballerina’s Big Audition features Royal New Zealand Ballet dancers performing to a recorded arrangement of Tchaikovsky’s music.

The performance is choreographed by the English National Ballet’s Antony Dowson with costumes, based on the original Angelina Ballerina drawings, by Wizzy Shawyer and set designs from Al Riches.

Angelina Ballerina’s creators said that the stage show has real sparkle and magic.

“We attended Angelina’s performances several times, and thought it was absolutely beautiful and wonderfully funny. This sparkling and original ballet is a magical theatrical experience for young and old alike,” said creators Helen Craig and Katharine Holabird.
